Profile

I am a Malaysian contemporary artist and art conservator. After graduating from the Kuala Lumpur College of Art and completing art restoration studies in Italy, I have spent more than two decades exploring painting as both a visual language and a form of cultural reflection. My practice draws inspiration from Malaysian identity, memory and craftsmanship while responding to the changing relationship between people, images and technology. Through symbolism and layered narratives, I seek to create works that invite viewers to question how we see, remember and assign value in an increasingly image-driven world. Alongside my studio practice, I continue to conduct conservation research, believing that preserving the past and creating the future are equally important.
